NEWS in brief

Key Travel has launched a Wellbeing Suite designed for employees and volunteers in not for profit organisations travelling to remote parts of the world. It includes KT Alert which turns a traveller's mobile phone into an alerting system.

Pre-selected speed dial numbers are used as triggers to inform selected contacts that the traveller is either "safe" or needs "help". KT Alert also houses timer functionality that automatically sends an alert if the user fails to remotely check in by a pre-set time. This is useful for workers in difficult circumstances where they may be unable to send an alert manually.
